Cookies for Breakfast? Mom has never allowed that before!

Bennie can't wait to run to the park to play with his friends. He quickly dresses in his favorite t-shirt and shorts, and runs down to breakfast. After rushing through his favorite breakfast (his first surprise of the day), Mom offers him a cookie - something she has never allowed at breakfast before (his second surprise). It's just the beginning of a day full of surprises. But when Bennie returns home, he discovers the biggest surprise of all!

"Cookies for Breakfast?," written and illustrated by Michele L. Medlyn, is an imaginative story about a boy, Bennie, who wakes up to find out he is having the Best Day Ever! Children ages 5 - 10 will love the bright color pictures and they will love the surprise ending. A perfect book for Bedtime reading with your child.

Michele is a resident of Mesa, Arizona and has embarked on a journey of writing books for children that has been greatly inspired by her 4 daughters, 11 grandchildren and 7 great-granddaughters. She hopes of filling their personal libraries with fun stories that will last a lifetime.

Besides "Cookies for Breakfast?" Michele has also written seven other books for youngsters. "If I Were a Mermaid" started it off followed by "The Short & Sweet Collection of Silly Nighty-Night Poems", "Trymble: The Secret of the Golden Amulet", "When I Grow Up", "What Do You Mean I'm A Frog?", "Holy Little Lamb: A Christmas Story" and "Harry's Whoppers".

You can purchase "Cookies for Breakfast" on Amazon.com, BarnesandNoble.com and from the publisher. Bookstores and online sellers may purchase copies directly from the publisher and may also order through Ingram distributing. You can find all of Michele's other books on Amazon.com.
